

FROM THE NORTH POLE

It's hard to believe that tomorrow is Christmas Day!

I bet you can hardly wait to celebrate with your family. I know you will enjoy sharing gifts and love as you remember the true meaning of this season.

I have had such a wonderful time in your home! I have had so much fun being a visitor and playing "hide and seek" with you each morning. I even got to pull off a few pranks too—hehe! I hope you didn't get into any trouble because of them. Aw, I couldn't resist!

Since tomorrow morning starts Christmas Day, I must bid you a heartfelt farewell. Santa needs all of us elves to report for duty back at the North Pole.

We help get things ready for the long night ahead you know. Making sure all of the toys are ready to be delivered to good little boys and girls on Christmas morning is a lot of work!

Oh, by the way, I'll make sure Santa knows you've been good this year. I'll recommend that Santa puts you on the "Nice List". It's the least I can do, to kind of pay you back for all of the little pranks I pulled.

Even though I must go now, I am already counting down the days until next year, when I can come back and see you again! Have a very merry Christmas!

With joy,

Your Elf on the Shelf

P.S. I like you! You are fun!
